Notes for the Apprentice:

Purpose

This document has been developed as an exemplar recording form for apprentice's self-assessment. It can be used to evaluate apprentice's readiness for End-point Assessment.

This document provides a template for summative self-assessment and reflective practice. Apprentices can use this document when reviewing their learning and development over the course of the apprenticeship and as a tool to prepare for their gateway to End-point Assessment.

Apprentices can review the criteria for each area of the Standard and self-assess their competence against the knowledge and skills required.

This self-assessment touches upon all aspects of your role and helps you prepare for your professional discussion.

Try to provide real work examples and experiences and reflect on these, what went well, not so well, what will you do differently as a result of reflecting on your practices, knowledge, skills, and behaviours.

Module A: Main tasks and responsibilities according to job role.

Reflect on your job role and responsibilities.

How you have supported individuals with their physical, social, emotional, sensory, and cognitive needs, and when you have monitored health and wellbeing, what went well or not so well, is there anything you would do differently?

Reflect on how you contribute to the individuals care plan and making sure the plan is person centred.

How have you ensured the individual has participated, and how have you escalated changes to the right person or professional? How have you gained consent?

What did you learn from this task, what would you do differently next time?

Provide examples of some relevant Standards, and Codes of Practice.
How you apply these within your role, think about Regulations, Policies and Procedures, and where can you access these?
How have these regulations and codes of practice impacted on your role?

Module B: Rights and Behaviours

Reflect on how you work with not just individuals but their families to ensure dignity, provide a real example, consider equality, diversity and showing empathy.
What is the importance of ensuring equality and diversity?
How would you show courage in supporting individuals who may challenging your personal or cultural beliefs and values?

Module C: The Importance of communication

How did you communicate with the individuals in your care using different methods and how have you overcome barriers to communication including environmental, cultural and language barriers?
How did you find about how your individuals communicate?

Reflect on where and how you keep information confidential.
How do you make sure you write reports that are clear and factual and reflect on how you have improved your core skills (reading, writing, maths, and IT), who supported you? Have your core skills improved if not what will you do to further your understanding of the core skills?

Module D: Support individuals to remain safe from harm (Safeguarding)

Reflect on your workplace policies on recognising and reporting, potential abuse, including the whistleblowing policy and process.

What have you learnt from these, what will you do differently if abuse was suspected or disclosed? What is your understanding of abuse? Give an example of how you have or how you would report any concerns.

Reflect on a time you have witnessed unsafe practice and how you have responded.

Would you do anything differently, what did you learn from this situation?

If you haven't witnessed unsafe practice, explain what this could be and how you would deal with the situation, what you would do?

Reflect on the impact these have on your role and duty of care.
What are the local and national safeguarding strategies and agencies including legislation?

Module E: Promote health and wellbeing for individuals they support and work colleagues.

Reflect on your knowledge and understanding of the health and safety responsibilities of yourself, your employer, and others. Have you learnt anything different as a result of your own training and development? Think about how you carry out infection control, moving and handling and fire safety tasks following your policies and procedures, reflect on your understanding and how your practice has improved over the past year.

Reflect on a time you have promoted healthy eating and hydration with individuals. What barriers did you encounter, what went well or not so well?

Module F: Work professionally and seek to develop own professional development.

Reflect on your practice and what you do differently as a result of developing new skills and your own competencies.
What knowledge and skills would you like to further develop as part of your own personal development plan and why?

Reflect on when you have worked with other professionals, colleagues and seniors working together as a team to support your individuals.
How has this benefited the individual and your knowledge and skills, what did you learn from these professionals and others?

Reflect on how you ensure you are working within clear and safe professional boundaries.
Why is this important, and what are the potential consequences of over stepping boundaries?
